It’s good to have awareness: health awareness, financial awareness, situational awareness… awareness can significantly affect our quality of life—even our ability to survive.

But there’s a yawning chasm separating awareness and action. It’s the kind of gap that lies between being aware that one has packed on an extra dozen pounds over the holiday season and actually doing something about it.

Optiv is about awareness. We’re also about informed, results-focused action.

For example: COVID-19. You may have heard about it. A lot… from, like, everywhere. Unless you’re living in a remote cave with no wi-fi, you’re hyper-informed on COVID-19.

As are we.

Optiv knows that COVID-19 has grabbed the world by the collar and shaken it until its teeth came loose. Further, we understand the nature, the scope and the context of this game-changer.

As the world begins to take COVID-19 in stride, know that Optiv has evolved in lock-step with this global threat and we continue to provide results and stand ready to help any organization that needs our expertise and assistance.

Through the recent turmoil, we’ve been helping our clients deal with issues related to COVID-19 by delivering consistent, front-line value.

But hey, you don’t have to be a financial institution to benefit from our depth and breadth of experience. Yes, we have many financial clients, but we also serve enterprises in insurance; retail, hospitality and travel; technology, media and telecommunications; manufacturing; healthcare, utilities and energy and more.

We’re everywhere… we’re well-rounded… we know the score and how to put points on the board.

Optiv—we’re where awareness meets cybersecurity action.