Bringing Strategy Into Action for a Mature Identity Program

As digital transformation and the Internet of Things continue to reshape our collective reality, status quo identity (IAM) programs are quickly hitting their glass ceilings. Variables like remote work, stolen credentials, insider threats, third-party technology and nonhuman identities further complicate an already dynamic threat environment as they outpace IAM capabilities and render networks vulnerable in unprecedented ways. How then, do forward-looking enterprises mature their existing investments while keeping identity at the core of their cybersecurity program?

Optiv Solutions

That's where Optiv’s identity advisory service comes in. Applying proven industry and consulting expertise, we can help you optimize your most critical business processes to align with tomorrow’s IAM architecture. Apart from improved operational efficiencies and ROI, the result is a managed and future-proof identity program that’s compliant with complex industry regulations, including fraud detection and customer identity protection.

How We Do It

- Define your critical business processes while classifying systems and supporting assets
- Take stock of what you have in order to identify people, process and technology gaps
- Prioritize and execute your programs strategy
- Continually measure performance, then adapt and improve
- Develop your enterprise objectives with senior executives and board of directors
